

Welsh agency pays for open source integration with C

The Countryside Council for Wales has hired European open source service provider to assist with the integration of its OpenBSD security systems with its Cisco-based network.